A SUMMARY IN NUMBERS

777

new books
added to the collection

We strive to increase diverse representation, ensuring each student sees themselves within our collection. We are so fortunate to live in a time with such incredible books being written, illustrated and published!

3158

books weeded
from the collection

Weeding is the process of re-evaluating resources in the library collection, and removing items that are worn out, have outdated/inaccurate information or are no longer serving learning needs and reading interests of students at the school. The weeding process is thoughtful and strategic, and a critical part of collection development.

12,441

books
checked
out

One of our goals is to, not just increase circulation over time, but have the kids actually reading the books they check out! Dynamic shelving, updating the collection and student input are a few ways of achieving this goal!

704

library
blocks

Each week, all classes come down to the library for their own individual library block. Here, we chat about their lives, read a book, check out books, tinker, and more!

88

collaboration
blocks

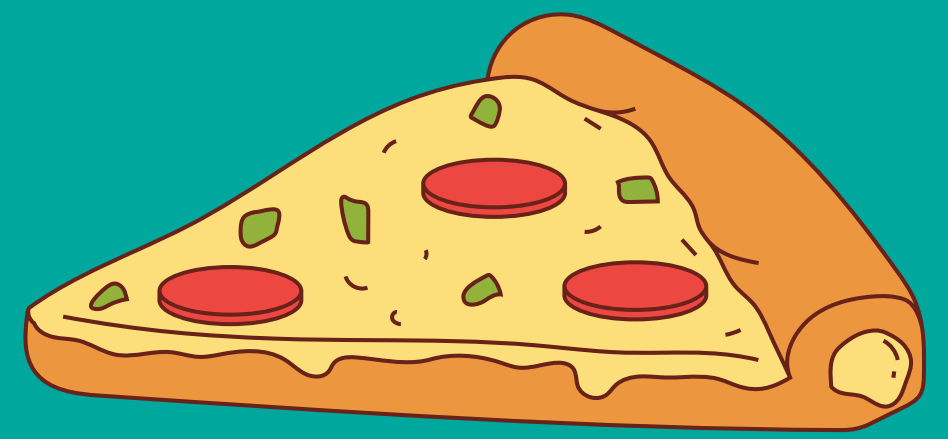

Collaboration blocks allow for classes to join Mrs. Markusoff in the library for a specific project, outside of their library block. This year, many students in grades 2-7 partook in the project and created a total of 115 3D prints to add to our loose parts kit!

Thank you for another wonderful year at Byng! Have a fun-filled summer and see you all in September!

-Mrs. Markusoff
